

User Testimonials:

“Our intermediate and advanced language learners appreciate access to SCOLA where they can indulge in everyday conversation to sharpen their ear. Several library users have expressed the confidence they’ve gained by using SCOLA before travel. Thank you for making the experience productive and enjoyable!”

Donna Olson,
Salem-South Lyon District Library
Michigan

“SCOLA’s authentic foreign language services provide an in depth way to learn a language.”

Cindy Camargo, Darien High School
Connecticut

“SCOLA is part of our cable network and is available throughout our campus. Our department likes to use the SCOLA InstaClass service to improve students’ listening comprehension skills.”

Olivia Cron, Miami University
Ohio

“As an Army linguist of many years and having looked for on-line language learning, I have found no better site than SCOLA.”

LTC Scott Hensley, USARCEN

Learning about a foreign people and the richness of their culture is the requisite first step to learning a foreign language with all its nuances. Without this step, it is not possible to appreciate and become proficient in a foreign language. The teaching philosophy pioneered by SCOLA to make use of actual foreign television and derivative multimedia tools, all available via SCOLA, facilitates this first step and this holistic approach to language learning.

All content provided by SCOLA comes with copyright permissions from the originating source that remain in effect throughout the term of the SCOLA User Agreement.

www.scola.org
712-566-2202

SCOLA is a 501(c)(3) Educational Organization

SCOLA

Where language and culture meet in multimedia to create a holistic approach to language learning

SCOLA

Learning a foreign language?
Need media content?
SCOLA has it - or can get it!

SCOLA is the preeminent and most diverse source of authentic, on-line accessible foreign television and complementary multimedia materials in the world. All content includes use permissions from the actual foreign owners.

SCOLA's ability to procure media from its broad network of providers around the world in the less commonly taught languages and regional dialects, with their accompanying rights, is what makes SCOLA the unmatched leader in foreign language media acquisition.

SCOLA users can access content through the SCOLA website or via Internet Protocol Television.

www.scola.org
712-566-2202

SCOLA Services:

World Television:

Includes multi-genre programming in over 100 languages.

Language/Culture Special Productions:

In-country video productions made for SCOLA showcasing localized customs, interviews, everyday occurrences and personal interactions.

World Periodicals:

Print Media from around the world.

World Photo Gallery:

If a picture is worth a 1000 words - SCOLA's Gallery speaks volumes!

Language/Culture Learning Assets:

Specially made and specifically chosen to enhance language and cultural learning.

Master the intricacies of language through the use of regional media and SCOLA's unique tools designed to give SCOLA users a superior language learning experience.

SCOLA bringing the world to you - wherever you are.